Press Release

Photographers show a diverse view of the real world

Mighty Imaging adds exciting new photographers' galleries

Phoenix, October 16, 2006:

Ever wanted to have an original photo of John Lennon on your wall, and at a size that would astound visitors? How about a jumbo sized photograph of the "Crab Nebulae" in deep space... or a panoramic image of snow-capped mountains? And these are original photographs, not 'posters.'

Well, these and hundreds more original art photographs are available now at Mighty Imaging's online galleries. Designers, business and home owners can now order these original images over the internet and receive 48 hour delivery. Mighty Imaging is a full service photo lab specializing in large photographic prints, and began showing the images of local and regional photographers in June.

Mighty Imaging, a digital printing company that specializes in large photographic images, has introduced some new artists to its unique gallery of photographers. These amazing photographers and image collections bring hard-to-find photographs to people looking for unique art for their walls.

Diego Ceja and Judith Faust present some amazing views of the real world. Judith focuses on forgotten places and Diego shows the real world in ways that challenge our perceptions. Bonnie Mitchell's digital art is as colorful and striking as Art Holeman's black and whites are quiet and understated.

Visualville, a local stock photography agency has included several dozen of their outstanding images of nature in their library. "Visualville represents some of the southwest's best shooters," says Stephanie Maus, Mighty Imaging's customer service guru, "and the images we have are stunning."

"This is really a unique situation we have provided for the artists and buyers to go through us," says Peter Fradin, owner. "It is a fantastic win-win for all concerned." Mighty Imaging provides a platform for photographers to use to sell their display images without becoming a middleman in the fee structure. "We make excellent large prints, and that's all we want to do. Giving buyers and artists a place to meet and show/buy work is all this is about."
